Parallax AF Showcasing New Artists from India, Chile, Sudan, Japan and Lebanon

New International Contemporary Art Fair in London, Parallax AF, will Showcase New Emerging Artists from Around the World

Artists from India, Chile, Sudan, Japan and Lebanon will exhibit alongside emerging artists from USA, UK, Europe and Australia at Parallax AF, a new art fair that will take place at La Galleria, Royal Opera Arcade, Pall Mall, London (UK) from 14th-23rd October.

“This is the second theoretical fair that we have developed,” explained Dr Chris Barlow, art historian and director at Barlow Fine Art. “I’m particularly pleased that the new concept is attracting international artists from as far as Australia, the Middle East and South America. The quality of the work and ideas is always extremely high. With the event taking place at about the same time as Frieze Art Fair, London will be packed more than usual with those interested in contemporary art. This time there will also be a lecture series, which is something very close to my own heart. Parallax AF is designed not simply to ask questions about how we curate, think about, and view contemporary art today, but to place them into the public domain so that everyone can get involved in the debates too.”

About Parallax AF

Parallax AF is the first art fair of its kind to use new theories from art history in its approach. It showcases established and emerging international contemporary artists and is curated by a guest curator. It is a serious platform for artists to present their work to national and international dealers, art-industry people, collectors, critics and buyers without commission charges in an exhibition format underpinned with critical theory. It aims to provide a key service in helping artists promote and sell their work, as well as providing a platform for developing their careers and practice. It is loosely divided into two exhibition showcases presenting abstraction/conceptual and figurative/conceptual art.

The second Parallax AF of this year takes place on Friday 14th October to Sunday 23rd October 2011 at La Galleria, Royal Opera Arcade, Pall Mall and is curated by Dr Chris Barlow.
